1) Knjiga „Slatkovodne ribe Aquatike“

Knjiga „Slatkovodne ribe Aquatike“ autora dr.sc. Gorana Jakšića

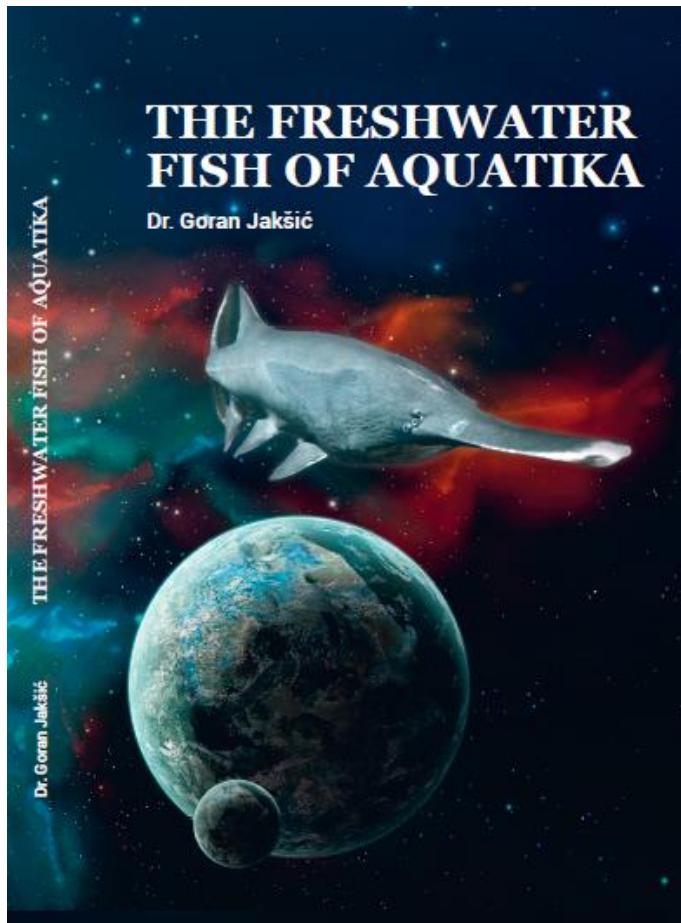

Suvremenom arhitekturom, kao i računalnom akvarijskom tehnologijom, Aquatika podsjeća na svemirski brod iz nekog znanstveno-fantastičnog romana. Stoga se činilo logičnim započeti pisanje knjige Velikim praskom iz kojeg je nastao svemir i česticama koje iz njega proizlaze. Od tih istih čestica nastaju zvijezde, zemlja po kojoj hodamo, kiša koja pada i rijeke koje teku. Nastaju, konačno, i ribe kojima se pretežno bavi ova knjiga.

- Knjiga na jedan zanimljiv, pristupačan te lako razumljiv način predstavlja slatkovodne ribe, od anatomije riba do pojedinih zanimljivosti za svaku vrstu
- cijena 150,00 kn s PDV-om (5%), 19,91 €

2) Knjiga „Freshwater fish of Aquatika”

The book "Freshwater fish of Aquatika" by Ph.D. Goran Jakšić in English

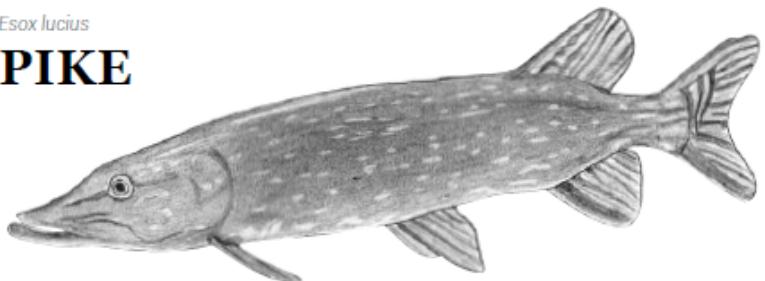

Due to contemporary architecture and modern aquarium technology, Aquatika resembles as a spaceship from some science fantasy novel. Therefore, it seemed logical to start writing the book with the Big Bang that created the universe and the particles that come from it. From those same particles the stars are created, the earth we walk on, the rain that falls and the rivers that flow. Finally, there are fish with which this book mainly deals with.

- The book presents freshwater fish in an interesting, accessible and easy-to-understand way, from the anatomy of fish to individual interesting facts about each species.
- price 150,00 kn VAT included (5%), 19,91 €

2) Book „Freshwater fish of Aquatika”

Esox lucius

PIKE

Pike inhabits lowland fresh waters where it hides among the aquatic plants. It has an elongated body that is typical for predators, with a dorsal fin positioned almost to the tail, in order to gain a quicker swimming start for attacking prey. It grows up to 1.5 metres long and can weigh up to 30 kilograms. The largest captured specimen weighed 65 kilograms. The front part of the head is flattened. The lower jaw contains multiple rows of large, sharp teeth, while the smaller, upper teeth are more densely positioned. It has large eyes and good vision which helps it locate prey. The body colour depends on the habitat. Typically, the body is green and yellow with light spots, and the belly is whitish. Fin colour varies from yellowish to reddish. Fish begin feeding when they achieve a length of 5 centimetres. Pike have been observed to be cannibalistic. In summer, it is active in the morning and evening and during cloudy periods, while in autumn, it is active all day long. In winter it feeds during sunny days.

DID YOU KNOW?
It captures prey in ambush with a lightning fast attack. It hunts its prey from the side, then turns it around head first and swallows. The mouth contains about 700 teeth.

Silurus glanis

CATFISH

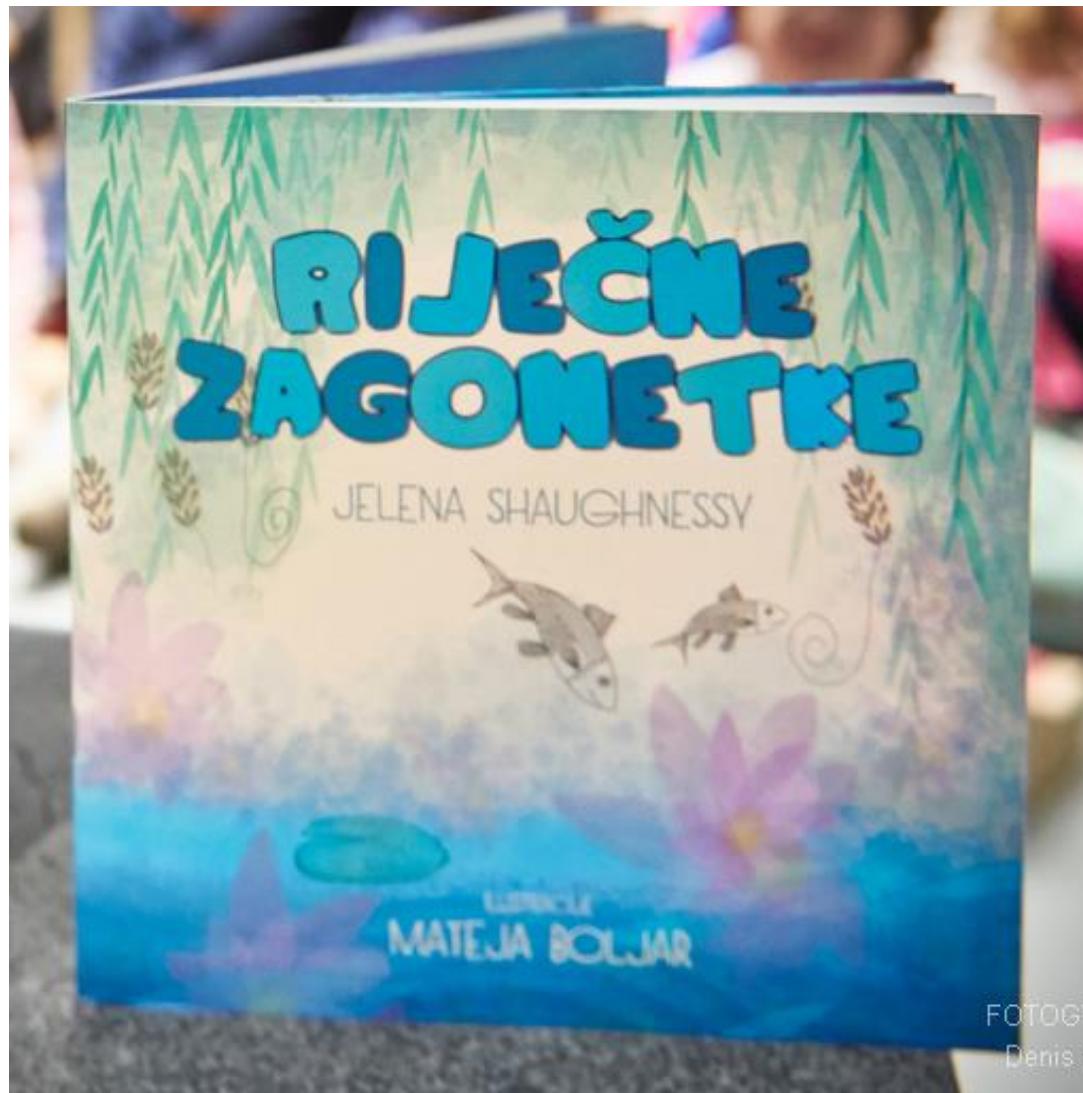

Catfish prefers quiet waters with a slower flow rate. This is a warm water fish that does not require a high amount of dissolved oxygen in the water. During the day, it is usually still in the depths or in the shelter of submerged plants and branches, while it is active by night. The skin is thick and scaleless. The head is wide, as is the mouth. The lower jaw protrudes over the upper jaw. The eyes are very small, indicating its nocturnal activity. Instead, it has well developed sensory receptors on the lips and barbels, and it is very sensitive to sound. The dorsal fin is very small, while the anal fin is very long and almost touches the tail fin. Body colour is olive green, the back is dark, the sides marbled, the belly white or light grey. It can grow up to 5 metres in length and weigh 300 kilograms. In Croatia, it typically grows up to 3 metres long, and weighs about 100 kilograms. Smaller individuals feed on zooplankton and aquatic invertebrates that live on the river bottom, while larger individual hunt for fish, frogs, ducks and small mammals.

DID YOU KNOW?
A catfish caught in the Dnieper River weighed 306 kilograms. According to written records, the largest catfish caught in the Danube weighed 340 kilograms.

The largest catfish ever recorded was caught in Wriezen, Germany in 1761, and its gutted mass was 375 kilograms.
